Changing education in finance is key to fund the SDGs

- Huge challenge: Channeling more private financial resources towards achieving the 2030 SDGs Agenda is critical.
- How and why should finance education evolve to meet this challenge?
- Discussion & lessons learned from the Sustainable Finance Master Class

Changing education in finance is key to fund the SDGs

Questions to the panel

1. What would you have liked to have been taught about finance at school?
2. What alternative views on finance do you find helpful, and do you think should be taught for a more pluralistic approach of finance?
3. Do you feel (finance stakeholders are) equipped to identify questionable allegedly sustainable financial practices? (Discourse without action, greenwashing)?
How could teaching finance help engage in meaningful sustainable practices?
4. What are your key takeaways from the SuFi Master Class?

Questions to the floor

---

1. Changing education on finance: whose responsibility is it?
  - What is the individual responsibility of academics?
  - Who else should be involved?
2. What should a curriculum of teaching finance for sustainability look like?
3. Why is teaching finance for sustainability not (yet) the norm?

Thank you for your attention!
