AGENDA 2030

CONSTITUTION OF THE WORLD HEALTH ORGANIZATION

Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity.

The enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health is one of the fundamental rights of every human being without distinction of race, religion, political belief, economic or social condition.

Health is a core element in people's well-being and happiness. Health is an important enabler and a prerequisite for a person's ability to reach his/her goals and aspirations, and for society to reach many of the societal goals.

Health in All Policies (HiAP) is an approach to public policies across sectors that systematically takes into account the health and health systems implications of decisions, seeks synergies and avoids harmful health impacts, in order to improve population health and health equity. A HiAP approach is founded on health-related rights and obligations. It emphasizes the consequences of public policies on health determinants, and aims to improve the accountability of policy-makers for health impacts at all levels of policy-making.

Core features of HiAP include a strong foundation on human rights and social justice, and a focus on policy-making. It is often necessary to prioritize efforts; seek synergies to enhance health and other important societal goals; and seek to avoid harmful impacts on health.

Application of HiAP involves identifying policy developments across sectors with potential implications for health and health equity; assessing impacts; and advocating and negotiating for changes. Long term vision and sustained efforts are often needed. Policy-making is a dynamic process in which windows of opportunity for policy decisions arise from changing economic, social, economic and political realities.
